

What do you think?

12 statements about virtual
mobility and other issues

Take a position in the room

In front of the room:

I agree with the statement

In the back of the room:

I disagree with the statement

Virtual mobility and multicampus are relevant concepts in my daily activities.

A virtual Erasmus trip can be as valuable as a real one.

Virtual support for internships should become common practice.

It is useful to investigate if online and e-learning is more/less effective than traditional learning.

Young people care more about meeting virtually than physically.

Young people belong to a new generation, the
'net generation'.

The 'net generation'
needs a new kind of education.

Web2.0 offers new possibilities in education.

KATHOLIEKE UNIVERSITEIT
LEUVEN

Microblogging is a hype.

Instructional video and movies should only be produced by professional media producers and not by educators.